1: Jenness--164 (1913-16) 1922 Copper Eskimo
116, 833, 163

"Sexual intercourse takes place at all seasons. It seemed to me that more children were born during the winter then [sic] at any other time. Of the births between 1914 and 1916 in the vicinity of Bernard harbour two occurred in December, one each in January, February, March and October, and one in either May or June; it must be remembered, however, that the natives are more scattered and less under observation during the summer months, so that complete information of this nature is difficult to obtain."